

The Department of Pediatrics
at Cooperman Barnabas
Medical Center presents:

RWJBarnabas Health Children's Kidney Center Annual Symposium

Prevention & Treatment of Kidney Disease in Children

October 9, 2024 | 5 to 7 p.m.

Islami Auditorium • Cooperman Barnabas Medical Center
94 Old Short Hills Rd, Livingston, NJ 07039

Early recognition and treatment of renal disorders in children can delay progression and may even prevent the development of chronic renal failure, minimizing neurological deficits and growth retardation. Recent technological breakthroughs and better understanding of pediatric kidney disease has led to improved care of infants and children with various nephropathies.

This program is designed to provide an update for pediatricians, pediatric urologists, pediatric subspecialists and nurses regarding renal disease from the neonatal period to late adolescence.

Symposium Topics:

- Management of Common Urological Problems in Children

Charles Concodora, MD, RWJBarnabas Health-Rutgers Medical Group, Chief, Pediatric Urology at Monmouth Medical Center, Assistant Professor, Department of Surgery, Rutgers RWJMS

- NICU Nephrology: Managing The (really) Young.

Benjamin Steinman, MD, Attending Pediatric Nephrologist, Children's Kidney Center at RWJBarnabas Health

- The Psychosocial Impact of Chronic Illness in Children

Lorena Donovan, MSW, LCSW, Psychotherapist, Chronic Illness Management Program Children's Specialized Hospital

- Infections and Kidneys

Isabel Roberti, MD, PhD, Director Children's Kidney Center at RWJBarnabas Health
